Prsentation de l'diteur
In this poetry collection, Brian L. Porter will take you into the center of the action and make you feel as if you're really there. One minute you'll find yourself in the cockpit of a bomber, limping home from a raid over enemy territory, and the next in a dogfight during the Battle of Britain. Author and screenwriter Brian L. Porter served with the RAF during the Cold War. Many of the works in this collection are based on the personal experiences of those who took part in the conflicts they depict; men and women who were pleased to relate those experiences to the author. You will experience the poignancy of his words, the simple message of Remembrance, the moving dignity of Polska, and the graphic horror of the concentration camps, as related in Holocaust. I am writing on behalf of all members of 617 Squadron to thank you for your written tribute to The Dambusters. It is a wonderful piece, which for me captures the spirit and courage of the young men who played a part on that fateful raid. Flight Lieutenant Richard Saunders, 617 Squadron RAF, speaking of Apres Moi le Deluge. If you enjoy poetry or World War 2 stories, you will love this deeply personal, intelligent tribute to those who served in war. Begin reading this beautifully tragic, poignant collection today!

Biographie de l'auteur Winner, Best Author, The Predators Editors Readers Awards 2009, and also Winner of Best Children's Book, and Best Artwork for 'Tilly's Tale' (under his Harry Potter pseudonym), and with a Top Ten Finisher Award for his thriller 'Legacy of the Ripper', Brian L. Porter is the author of a number of successful novels. His works include the winner of The Predators Editors Best Thriller Novel 2008 Award, A Study in Red -- The Secret Journal of Jack the Ripper and its sequels, Legacy of the Ripper and the final part of his Ripper trilogy, Requiem for the Ripper, all signed for movie adaptation by Thunderball Films (L.A.), with A Study in Red already in the development stages of production. Both A Study in Red and Legacy of the Ripper were awarded Recommended Read status by the reviewers at CK2S Kwips Kritiques. Aside from his works on Jack the Ripper his other works include Pestilence, Purple Death, Glastonbury, Kiss of Life and The Nemesis Cell, and the short story collection, The Voice of Anton Bouchard and Other Stories. Brian has also become thoroughly integrated into the movie business since his first involvement with Thunderball Films LLC and is now also an Associate Producer and Co-Producer on a number of developing movies, as well as being a screenwriter for many of the movies soon to be released by Thunderball. He is a dedicated dog lover and rescuer and he and his wife share their home with a number of rescued dogs.
